Clinically, Japanese patients with multiple myeloma (MM) have been shown to have a relatively favourable outcome compared with Caucasian patients with MM. This fact could be explained by their clinical manifestation of the disease. The low level of serum IgM and the high level of serum LDH were considered as characteristic of MM in Japanese patients. On the other hand, it has been reported that Japanese MM patients had a significantly higher survival rate than Western MM patients. These results suggested that a higher percentage of normal plasma cells are found in the circulation of patients with MM in Japan than in the circulation of Western patients. The presence of more mature plasma cells in the circulation of Japanese patients than in Western patients may

For some reason, I cannot connect to my server using ICQ (I have the latest version of the client). I have registered a new phone number, so I tried to reset the pw and the server identification number. But I still cannot connect. Is there a way to reset all the settings on the ICQ program? Login at the ICQ site, and click the 'S' on the top right corner. Click for example 'Reset Phone Number'. You can also use the 'Click here for help' or 'Click here for help in the app'.Flat foot deformity in adolescence. The objective of this study is to determine the incidence, range of motion, etiology, and effect of a very specific subtype of flatfoot, PTTI (Plat Pedal Tarsal Interphalangeal Joint Inaccessibility), in a selected group of adolescents. Examinations were conducted on a cohort of 90 adolescents who were positive for flatfoot after receiving routine school screening at only three different schools over a 2-year period. Only 15 of the 90 children were diagnosed with a single flat foot deformity, PTTI. The interphalangeal joint of the first digit and the base of the 1st metatarsal were variably included or excluded in the deformity. The incidence of flatfoot was found to be 2.2% in this selected group of adolescents. Google Issues Anonymous Hardware Security Update - Thorondor We received a package by FedEx from Google with a USB memory card inside it. The security patch was executable and upon opening it, a USB device was plugged in. The update was just a few patches of the firmware.I imagine a lot of people are having issues like this at the moment, I'm posting to let people know Google is aware and they will respond when the time is right.Today, I received the update, it was a shock. I don't want to get someone's address over there, but if there is any need to get out the full version, I will be happy to be the one to do so. ====== aDevilInMe Same issue here in India, and the update too is "5.0.2", which is quite odd when 5.0.1 is being released in the 28-day rolling releases. Also, the update process is taking a lot of time. ------ rohit89 Not sure if
